Chapter -9(The living Organisms and Their Surroundings)

Components of habitat -

The two components of a habitat are-

(1) Biotic components-

All living beings such as human beings, animals, plants and microorganisms, are called the biotic components.(living components)

(2) Abiotic components -

All non-living things, such as, soil, waterbodies, atmosphere and meteorological factors such as sunlight, temperature, rainfall, wind speed etc., are called abiotic components. (Nonliving components).

Adaptation -

The tendency of an organism to develop certain specific features which improve the chances of its survival in the environment in which it lives is known as adaptation.

Adaptation is of two types-

- Permanent adaptation has a genetic basis and causes permanent changes in the individuals. E.g. a fish is well adapted to live in water.
- Temporary adaptation is a short term adaptation, and is not inherited. E.g. -a bird adapted to live in the cage is a temporary adaptation.

Democratic Governments

India is a democracy. This achievement is the result of a long and eventful struggle of the Indian people. There are other places in the world where people have also struggled to have democracies. You now know that the main feature of a democracy is that the people have the power to elect their leaders. So in a sense a democracy is rule by the people. The basic idea is that people rule themselves by participating in the making of these rules.

Democratic governments in our times are usually referred to as representative democracies. In representative democracies people do not participate directly but, instead, choose their representatives through an election process. These representatives meet and make Nowhere in the world have governments willingly shared power. All over Europe and USA, women and the poor have had to fight for participation in government. Women's struggle to vote got strengthened during the First World War. This movement is called the women's suffrage movement as the term suffrage usually means right to vote.

During the War, many men were away fighting, and because of this women were called upon to do work that was earlier considered men's work. Many women began organising and managing different kinds of work. When people saw this they began to wonder why they had created so many unfair stereotypes about women and what they were capable of doing. So women began to be seen as being equally capable of making decisions.

The suffragettes demanded the right to vote for all women and to get their demands heard they chained themselves to railings in public places. Many suffragettes were imprisoned and went on hunger strikes, and they had to be fed by force. American women got the right to vote in 1920 while women in the UK got to vote on the same terms as men some years later, in 1928.
